Balantek Presentation

Nacogdoches, Texas - Animal Science Products Inc., the global leader in poultry vaccine stabilizers, recently conducted four Vaccination Good Management Practice seminars in China. The seminars were hosted by Balantek, an ASP distributor located in Shanghai, China. The programs focused on educating poultry professionals on methods to maximize vaccine performance. The discussions took place in the Henan and Shandong provinces which produce large numbers of poultry. The presentations were made by ASP's Chief Science and Technology Officer, Mr. Ryan Izard, and translated by Mr. Stone (Zhang Lei) of the Balantek team. Commenting on the seminars, Mr. Izard said, "Our goal is to help the customer understand that vaccination does not guarantee immunization. There are many challenges in mass vaccination and our job is to safeguard the producer's investment by protecting the vaccine until the bird is inoculated". Mr. Richard Xia, President of Balantek, commented, "We see a great future for the ASP products here in China. We recently added Mr. Huang to our staff to dedicate his entire time to this product line. The products are quite unique and can be very beneficial to the rapidly growing Chinese poultry producers".
